Ms. Corbett / Ms. Khan:

Today I received two drug certs that are relevant to the case of Commonwealth v. [REDACTED] docket [REDACTED] currently scheduled for a Jury Trial on April 6, 2010 in the Malden District Court. The two certs are for the following sample numbers, both of which are evidence in that single case:

[REDACTED]

In both of these, Ms. Corbett is identified as the preliminary Analyst and Ms. Khan as the confirmatory Analyst.

I will be summoning both of you to testify at the trial on April 6 – I hope to prepare the summonses immediately after I send this, but may do it in the next day or two if I need to catch my train. However, I wanted to send this out immediately, for two reasons:

1. To give you advance notice of that date without waiting any longer, and
2. To request that you send me, at your earliest convenience, copies of the notes, results, etc. in your files for each of these submissions.

If mailing me the paperwork from these tests is not possible in short order, please let me know, so that I can manage the expectations of the defense counsel in this matter. For what it is worth, this case is probably more likely to resolve in a plea than in a trial, but only be a small amount. If it ends up in actually being tried, I would not be surprised, given what I know about the defense attorney and his common strategy.

Thank you. Please look for specific summonses under separate email (it looks like I will get to them tonight). If there are any questions, please get in touch with me.
